CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

(Centered. Bold. Size 16. All caps.)

This section must mention different but relevant aspects of the topic under investigation, the problem statement in light of previous research, and reasons for undertaking the study. In other words, why is this study needed. The aims and objectives of the study must be highlighted under this section.

Instructions for different sections in the chapter.

1.0 Heading

(First-level headings are left-aligned. Heading Size 12 Bold)

1.1 Subheading

(Second-level headings are left-aligned. Heading Size 12 Bold)

1.1.1 Sub-Subheading

(Third-level headings are left-aligned. Heading Size 12 Bold)

CHAPTER TWO

LITERATURE REVIEW

(Centered. Bold. Size 16. All caps.)

This section must include a review of recent literature relevant to the research under investigation. It is important to note that the literature review should not simply mention other studies one by one and instead should include an integrative discussion of the common themes, linkages, and any questions/gaps that may arise from the discussion. It should not just contain a summary of different studies, rather you must develop your argument in this section in the light of relevant literature.

2.0 Heading

2.1 Subheading

2.1.1 Sub-Subheading

CHAPTER THREE

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

(Centered. Bold. Size 16. All caps.)

Describe this section in detail, including the research design, methodology, and methods. Justify the rationale for the selected research design to ensure the validity and reliability of your research. In the case of qualitative research design, it must be explained which methods were selected and how they were applied to your research. You need to explain the sequence of the methods in which they have been applied.

3.0 Heading

3.1 Subheading

3.1.1 Sub-Subheading

CHAPTER FOUR

DATA ANALYSIS AND RESULTS

(Centered. Bold. Size 16. All caps.)

- 1. Describe results succinctly and clearly. In case of a qualitative study, you need to share your research findings and need to substantiate your argument with data in the form of quotes.
- 2. Findings that are presented in the form of Tables and Figures may be described in words as and when needed. Otherwise, avoid verbosity and try to be concise and to the point as much as possible
- 3. Give data either in Figure or Table form and explain it. Do not just repeat it in the form of a paragraph.

4.0 Heading

4.1 Subheading

4.1.1 Sub-Subheading

CHAPTER FIVE

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

(Centered. Bold. Size 16. All caps.)

This section should include a discussion of the data generated by you in the light of relevant literature. The data of other laboratories/research (if applicable) may be given only to support your own data. In case the results are different from the previously published literature, a student can give possible reasons or explanations for that. The discussion must end with a clearly defined conclusion and future prospects of the subject under investigation.

5.0 Heading

5.1 Subheading

5.1.1 Sub-Subheading

ANNEXURE

Annexure (if any) should be placed at the end of the thesis.

General Guidelines for Thesis Writing

All theses submitted for MS/M.Phil should comply with the following instructions. These instructions concern the layout, structure, and formatting of the thesis.

1. Plagiarism

Remember that you must acknowledge your source every time you refer to someone else's work. Failure to do so amounts to plagiarism, which is against the University rules and is a serious offence. Plagiarism report (PDF file) should be submitted to the DOPS at the time of thesis submission for thesis evaluation and defence.

Under the rules, Original Plagiarism report, along with the Certificate issued by Superior Information Resource Centre (SIRC) must be part of your hard-bound copy thesis while submitting thesis to the Controller of Examination (COE) office after thesis defence.

2. Chapter Guidelines

- Start each chapter from a new page
- Chapter name should be center aligned
- Chapter main heading and subheadings should be left-aligned
- The first paragraph of each chapter must give an overview about the whole chapter, including what the chapter is about, what it contains, and its structure
- The number of chapters may vary as per faculty requirements

3. Abbreviations and Acronyms

Acceptable abbreviations and acronyms may be used in footnotes, tables, and references. To save space and time, it is sometimes convenient to use abbreviations for lengthy words or phrases used frequently throughout the thesis. When used for the first time, such abbreviations must be presented in parentheses immediately after the words or phrase for which they stand. An example is “Phosphate Buffered Saline (PBS) was used in all dialysis operations.” In succeeding sentences throughout the thesis, the initials PBS can be used instead of phosphate buffered saline.

Please do not use abbreviations of the word when it is used 3 or fewer times

4. Grammar

The past tense is preferred for scientific writing wherever required. Use active voice rather than passive voice

5. Typing and Page Directions

- Good quality (minimum 80g) white paper of A4 size ( $8.27 \times 11.69$ ) must be used.
- 1-inch margin must be on each side, except the left side margin, which should be 1.25 inches.
- No header or footer should be used while typing and no extra margin should be left within the marked margin.
- “Times New Roman” font style is recommended throughout the thesis, with 1.5 Line Spacing.
- The main headings font size should be 16 and bold, while the sub-heading size should be 12 and bold, and text size should be 12.
- All figures should be centrally aligned with captions at the bottom of figure. Figure title and caption should be in the same line, with figure title and number in italics and the caption without italics (e.g. Figure 1. Visual illustration of theoretical model.)
- All tables should be centrally aligned with captions at the top of the table. Write table number (e.g. Table 1) in the first line and the caption of the table (e.g. Comparison between Assessment Methods) in italics in the next line
- All equations should be centrally aligned with proper numbering

6. Pagination

All pages must be numbered. Pages from the Author Declaration should bear Roman numbers (I, II, III, IV, V, VI, etc.), whereas pages from the Abstract onward should be given regular numeric numbers (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, etc.) on the right side at the bottom of the page.

7. Printing and Binding Instructions

- Four hard-bound copies of the thesis are required to be submitted for final thesis examination.
- The color of binding should be “Black” and the text on the title page should be in “Golden” color.
- The spine of the bound thesis should have Name of Degree (MS/M.Phil Thesis), Student’s Name, and Session Years.
